

How motorists can save on insurance

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Premiums for automobile insurance are soaring as companies complain they cannot afford the rising cost of repairs and the increased number of claims. Motorists can save money, however, if they shop around and follow a few simple rules.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that auto insurance premiums, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, increased 1 per cent from September to October. The cost of auto insurance in October was 20.2 per cent higher than it was at the start of the year.

The increase is more than four times the rise in the overall Consumer Price Index during the same period. It compares to a boost for auto insurance premiums of under 6 per cent in 1975 and less than 1 per cent in all of 1974.

Government figures compiled by the Conference Board, a nonprofit business research group, show Americans spent just over $5 billion on auto insurance — premiums minus claims paid out — in 1975. That's about one-eighth of the amount they spent to buy the cars in the first place.

The insurance companies say the costs they have to pay have increased. They cite higher medical bills and increased prices for auto parts used in repairs. No-fault insurance plans were designed to hold the lid on premiums by eliminating some costly lawsuits. But the no-fault laws generally do not cover property damage, only bodily injury. And some of the no-fault laws allow legal action in cases where medical costs exceed a relatively low level.

How can you cut your costs?

Most important, according to the Illinois Department of Insurance, is to shop around. A 1975 study prepared for the Kemper Insurance Cos. showed that 72 per cent of those questioned considered only one company when buying insurance. The Illinois agency recommends comparing prices and services of at least three insurers.

To point up the importance of comparison shopping, the insurance department looked at the hypothetical case of a 34-year-old married man in 1974. Depending on where he lived and which company he purchased his insurance from, the man could have paid anywhere from $115 to $794 for exactly the same amount of coverage.

—Drive safely. The fewer accidents you have, the lower your rate.

—Try to pay your premiums for the full period of the policy. It costs more to pay on the installment plan.

—Consider increasing the amount of your "deductibles." A deductible is the part of the loss you pay yourself. Suppose, for example, you have a collision policy with a $50 deductible and you are in an accident involving $300 worth of damage to your car. You pay $50; the auto company pays the rest. If you agree to pay a bigger part of the loss in case of accident, your premium will be lower.

—Cancel any insurance you won't use. Do you really need collision coverage on that old car? The cost of repairs might be more than the value of the auto.

—Don't drive to work. If you must, find out if your company offers a car-pool discount; about half of all companies do, according to the Illinois insurance department.

Firemen fight a four-alarm fire that burned out a five-story apartment building in Boston's North End Sunday. The historic Old North Church, across the street from the burning building, suffered minor smoke damage.

New Year's weekend fires claim 45 lives

By The Associated Press

Fires in seven states claimed at least 45 lives during the New Year's weekend and damaged Boston's Old North Church. Officials said at least one of two fatal fires in Chicago may have been arson.

In the aftermath of the weekend fires, five children were killed and at least one adult was injured early today when flames swept through a home in the Chicago suburb of Brookfield, police reported.

Police identified the Brookfield victims as Michael Fanta, 17, Ronald Fanta, 16, Theresa Fanta, 13, and twin brothers, Kevin and Kenneth Fanta, 11.

An unidentified woman was badly burned.

The suspicious fire broke out in an apartment building on Chicago's Southwest Side early Sunday morning, killing five persons and injuring at least seven others. Police said two partly filled gasoline cans were found on the fourth floor of the building, where the fire apparently began.

The victims included a woman and her three children, ages 5 to 16.

On Saturday, another Chicago apartment house fire claimed nine lives on the Northwest Side. The cause of that blaze was undetermined.

The fire on Sunday was about a block from the site of a Christmas Eve fire in which 12 persons, including 10 children, were killed.

Nine persons were killed in a Shamokin, Pa., motor hotel fire which broke out about 2 a.m. Sunday. One of the victims was the owner-operator of the Walnut Towers Motor Inn in the central Pennsylvania community about 50 miles northeast of Harrisburg.

John Luckens, 44, died of smoke inhalation while trapped in an elevator between floors of the four-story hotel, fire officials said.

In Boston, historic Old North Church sustained smoke damage when a four-alarm fire burned out a nearby apartment house in the North End.

It was from the steeple of Old North Church that Paul Revere arranged for a friend to hang the two lanterns — the "two if by sea" of Longfellow's poem — on April 18, 1775, to warn patriots that British troops were rowing across Boston Harbor. Then Revere set off on his famous ride through the countryside.

In Tennessee early Sunday, two fires killed eight persons.

In Springville, Pat Childs and her three young daughters, Teresa, Mimi and Sandy, died when their split-level frame home was destroyed by a blaze that erupted in a dry Christmas tree, police said.

Democrat senators elect majority leader Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic senators will caucus Tuesday morning to elect a successor to Mike Mansfield as majority leader. The rival candidates are Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert C. Byrd, now the party whip, or deputy leader.

A spokesman for Humphrey says the secret ballot is the key to the battle for the post of Senate Democratic leader.

A conference of Republican senators also will be held Tuesday to choose their party leaders. The eight new GOP senators are to meet today with actual or potential candidates for party leadership posts.

Byrd has been acknowledged front-runner for the Democratic leadership post. However, David Gartner, Humphrey's administrative assistant, told a reporter that "we still think we have a chance" and that "the key thing" is that the vote will be by secret ballot.

Gartner said two or three senators have urged the Minnesota senator privately not to drop out, telling him they are going to vote for him even though they are publicly committed to Byrd. He declined to name the senators.

Byrd had no comment on Gartner's statement. Byrd, a West Virginian, has been the Democratic whip since 1971 when he unseated Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., from the post.

Mansfield, who served as the Senate Democratic leader for a record 16 years, did not run for reelection to the new Congress.

Another storm expected to hit here this week

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

A wind-lashed storm which swept into the valley Sunday caused some flooding of streets along the Cucamonga Wash from Alta Loma to Chino but did little serious damage to homes or facilities in the area.

The storm, which dumped up to three inches of rain in some valley locations, is expected to taper off to showers by Tuesday, but a National Weather Service spokesman said another storm is building over the Pacific and should hit Southern California by midweek.

Flooding caused a number of street closings in the Red Hill area Sunday evening. This morning, 19th Street and Carnelian and Sapphire streets in the Alta Loma area remained closed as state highway crews cleaned debris from the intersections.

High winds were reported this morning in the Cajon Pass and motorists were warned to use caution when traveling in the area. One report said chains may be needed at times.

Police departments and the California Highway Patrol reported a number of accidents due to rain-slick roads, but no traffic fatalities were blamed on the rainstorm.

At Mt. Baldy, the rain washed away what little snow had arrived on Thursday.

The West End Sheriff's Search and Rescue unit was praised by resort operators for maintaining excellent traffic control over the holiday weekend.

There is no skiing in the Mt. Baldy area but a number of visitors crowded the area to play in the dwindling snow, rangers reported.

The heaviest rain fell in the mountains, with 3.45 inches of rain during the weekend storm, bringing the season total, unofficially, to 12.51 inches.

Only about four inches of snow remained at Snow Crest today, according to Earl Adams, operator of Movie Slope Ski School.

No serious traffic problems were reported on the mountain roads over the weekend.

Upland man found stabbed in heart dies

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

Ontario police today are investigating the stabbing death of an 18-year-old Upland man found wounded in the backyard of a home at 557 E. Sunkist St. Saturday night.

Joseph A. Adame of 1911 S. Holly Ave., the victim, died at Ontario Community Hospital about 10:45 p.m. of a single stab wound of the heart. The death occurred about an hour after he was found in the yard, said police.

Investigators said they have few clues in the slaying, but there was evidence the victim may have been in a fist fight earlier with an unknown person or persons in the 500 block of Sunkist Street.

Police said an autopsy revealed the victim's knuckles on his right hand were bruised. His shirt was found inside a friend's pickup truck parked on Sunkist Street near the railroad tracks.

It appeared the victim was stabbed on the street and ran from the area, said police. He ran down an alley behind 558 Sunkist St., and then up a driveway to the home of Lorna Sue Berry of 558 E. Sunkist St.

Miss Berry told officers that she heard someone clawing at the screen of her home and saw a man outside trying to get in. She said the man then turned, tripped over a lounge chair on her back porch and then went to the home directly behind her. She said she contacted her neighbor, William Lyman, who lives directly behind her at 557 E. Sunkist St. When Lyman found Adame behind some bushes in the front of his home, he called police.

Police said Adame apparently had few enemies. He was living with the Phillip Perez family in Upland and was engaged to their daughter. His father is in the service in Hawaii and his mother lives in Cheyenne, Wyo., police said.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Richardson-Peterson Mortuary in Ontario.

Weather

Storm is expected to taper off Tuesday, but a new rainstorm may move in by midweek. The weather will remain cool and windy today and Tuesday with a high predicted Tuesday of near 60, and an overnight low of 43. Friday's high was 51, with a low of 47. On Saturday, the high was 60 and low, 43. Sunday had a high of 63 and a low of 44. Tuesday Sunrise 6:57, sunset 4:54.

Rose Parade floats disqualified; stirs up a controversy

PASADENA (AP) — No rain dampened the 88th Annual Tournament of Roses Parade, but a storm is brewing because nine major floats were disqualified from winning banner awards.

"The controversy is getting bigger," said a spokesman for the Festival Artists firm, which built the nine floats that were disqualified for being late at the final judging area.

They were sponsored by such firms as Atlantic Richfield Company, Baskins Robbins Ice Cream and Occidental Life Insurance Company of California. The float from the City of Los Angeles was also among those disqualified.

Ray Herbeck, spokesman for Festival Artists, said a special meeting will be held today to determine what happened. "It's not like we want the tournament to take the prizes away from the firms which got them," Herbeck said. "And we can't be sure our floats would have won banner prizes. But the nine floats that were disqualified, most were the top floats we built."

He claimed there was "some kind of a major breakdown in the tournament operation, in the process of getting the floats from where we built them to the parade lineup."

The Southern California Edison Co. reported only two small power outages over the weekend. In the San Dimas area, a few homes near the Foothill Freeway lost power from 5:30 p.m. to midnight on New Year's Eve due to lightning strike.

The Pomona office of the Edison Co. also reported that about 160 homes in the area of Arroyo, Ganesha and Glen avenues were without power New Year's Eve from about 6:30 p.m. until the next morning when lightning struck eight transformers.

In Montclair, one apartment complex was without electricity Sunday from 12:15 p.m. to 8 p.m. and again at 10 p.m. due to water getting into an underground line, Edison Co. officials said.

Jack King, General Telephone Co. spokesman, said no telephone lines in the valley were affected. He said the company spends $3 million a year in a program of cable pressurization which pumps dehydrated air under pressure into cables to eliminate water problems.

News analysis: Legislature in '77

Brown's 'popularity' tested by tough political decisions

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., bolstered by immense personal popularity at the midpoint of his four-year term, faces tough decisions in 1977 on school finance, property tax relief and the death penalty.

Brown has had his own way during the first two years of his term, setting priorities, picking issues and dictating solutions.

But that is changing, and 1977 may be a tougher year for the 38-year-old Democrat.

Following eight years of Ronald Reagan's Republican administration, Brown started with a handy agenda of bottled-up programs that were relatively easy to get from the Democratic legislature.

Brown can, and sometimes does, recite a long list of accomplishments.

"I could cite the laundry list," he said in an interview last week.

"Loophole closing, mandatory sentences, no new taxes, 50 per cent increase in scholarships for low-income people, the 50 per cent increase in early childhood education, the aggressive approach on air pollution, farm labor the first year, coastal the next year."

But Brown does not have the luxury this year of picking the issues.

The California Supreme Court did that for him with major rulings in recent weeks that the death penalty and California's system of local property taxes for schools were both unconstitutional.

Those two issues are expected to dominate the legislative session beginning today.

But unlike the past two legislative sessions, Brown does not yet have easy answers or a unified Democratic party behind him on the top issues. He promises to unveil his school finance and property tax relief plan within a week. His first trial balloon tax proposal was criticized by most Democrats as too little.

On the major issues of 1977, the big Democratic party majority in the legislature — 25-14 in the Senate and 57-23 in the Assembly — may not be any help to Brown.

Speaker Leo McCarthy, the Democratic leader of the Assembly, says he is ready to raise state taxes if needed to give homeowner and renter relief. Brown is making no new taxes a top goal.

In the upper house, the top Democrat, Senate President pro tem James Mills, is again sponsoring a gasoline tax increase which Brown opposes.

Brown opposes the death penalty. But his party is split down the middle on that issue. And Brown's opposition to capital punishment conflicts with the majority view of California voters, who in 1972 approved the death penalty by a 2-1 margin.

With Republicans almost unanimous in support, and the Democratic majority split, chances are 50-50 or better that a death penalty bill will reach Brown's desk.

That is one of the few issues which seriously threaten Brown's popularity with voters as his 1978 re-election campaign approaches.

So far, he is approaching it cautiously, citing his past opposition to capital punishment, but refusing to say what he will do in the future.

But school finances and property tax relief may be even tougher problems for Brown and the legislature this year.

The California Supreme Court ruling last week declared unconstitutional a local property tax system which raises $4 billion a year.

One answer is substitution of a statewide property tax for the unconstitutional local property taxes. But a statewide property tax means less local control of schools, and in some areas it would amount to a state-imposed tax increase.

But the other choices are also unattractive:

—Substituting other taxes for the property tax is impractical. To add another $4 billion to the $2.7 billion the state now provides local schools would require a 100 per cent increase in the state personal income tax, an 11-cent sales tax, a 325 per cent increase in business taxes or some combination of those increases.

—Increasing state aid to poor schools to give them the same money per child as rich districts could cost a $1 billion or more. And unless local tax rates were also dictated, some sort of complex controls would be required to prevent school districts from cutting local taxes to pick up more state funds.

—Ordering high-wealth school districts to cut spending to the same level as poor districts could eliminate thousands of teaching jobs and cripple some schools.

—Establishing special programs and criteria for identifying children with special learning problems might get around the court order to equalize spending so that no district spends more than $100 per child per year more than any other district. But critics say California schools need less of that sort of bureaucracy and more classroom teaching.

The solution that Brown and the legislature finally adopt probably will contain elements of some or all of those options. But such a solution could face criticism from all directions.

In urban areas, any school equalization measure will mean a state-ordered cut in the school budget unless the program is so heavily doctored with special criteria that the equalization is a fiction.

In many rural areas, equalization could mean major tax increases. Suburban areas might get a tax cut and more school money at the same time, but at the loss of local control over schools.

New Year's pajama party—human zoo

SACRAMENTO (AP) — While their parents were out on the town, 102 youngsters enjoyed a New Year's pajama party at the YMCA here.

After it was over, the adult counselors knew they'd been to a party.

"I'm drunk with little kids, I'll tell you. It's a zoo here. Thank God nobody threw up and we didn't have much blood," said Dee Anne Finken, one of the 25 counselors.

The kids arrived Friday with sleeping bags, sneakers, food, games, swimming goggles and bathing suits. They stayed until their parents picked them up Saturday.

During the 22-hour party, Ginny Perkins, 8, twisted out a tooth.

Frank Gomez, 10, put a live mouse in a girl's sleeping bag.

Rhonda Hirohota, 8, cried she wanted to go home because "everybody was stepping on everybody."

Somebody took somebody else's flashlight. A few boys started an early morning fire in the fireplace. A few others had fun taking baked beans from dinner and stuffing them in a few empty sleeping bags.

"I got about three hours of sleep," said counselor Tim Merjil. "It was one of the longest days I ever spent in my life trying to get these kids to sleep."

Parents paid $9 if they were YMCA members, $12 if they were not. It covered three meals, snacks and services of the counselors.

ERROLL GARNER

Jazz pianist Erroll Garner dead at 53

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jazz pianist Erroll Louis Garner, a tiny man who played the piano by ear at age three and later wrote the hit "Misty," is dead.

Garner, 53, died Sunday of a heart attack en route to Cedars Sinai Medical Center here. He had been seriously ill with emphysema for several years and had been discharged from the hospital near his home just last Wednesday.

Standing only 5-foot-2, Garner carried a copy of the New York yellow pages telephone book with him to sit on to reach the piano keys. He sometimes tried other books though and once told an interviewer of his experience in Las Vegas.

"They got little phonebooks," Garner said. "I have to use about three or four of them babies."

Along with "Misty," which he wrote in the 1950s, Garner contributed such hits as "Dreamy," "Gaslight," "Solitaire" and "That's My Kick."

"Misty," probably Garner's most famous work, was recorded by the composer himself in 1956 with Mitch Miller and his orchestra. It was later given words by Johnny Burke and became a hit for singers Johnny Mathis and Sara Vaughan. It also played a key role in the Clint Eastwood film, "Play Misty for Me."

Born in Pittsburgh in 1923, Garner played piano by ear at age 3 and never learned to read music. He began appearing regularly on station KDKA in Pittsburgh at age 7 with a group called the Candy Kids. By age 11, he was playing music on Allegheny riverboats.

He is survived by two brothers, Linton and Ernest, and three sisters, Martha, Ruth and Berniece. His body was to be flown to his native Pittsburgh for burial.

State briefs

Crime war set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles' two top prosecutors are asking federal and state tax agencies to seek increased appropriations and additional investigative manpower to fight organized crime.

Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp and City Atty. Burt Pines made their request in a joint letter to Werner Blumenthal, President-elect Jimmy Carter's designated Secretary of Treasury, and Martin Huff, executive officer of the California Franchise Tax Board.

Patrolman hurt

CASTAIC (AP) — A California Highway Patrol officer has been injured after his patrol car rolled over and burst into flames during a high-speed chase.

Officials said fire department paramedics rescued Robert Welch from the burning car Sunday. He was taken to the Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital in Valencia, where he was listed in good condition.

A spokesman said Welch was chasing a reported stolen car when his patrol vehicle went out of control and crashed here during a chase that reached speeds up to 110 miles an hour.

Valley crime

Stater Bros. robbed

A man with blue paint in his hair and armed with a pistol robbed the Stater Bros. Market at 1555 S. Garey Ave. in Pomona Sunday night.

An employee said the gunman took cash from two cash registers before fleeing.

The robber took two cans of beer to the checkout stand and then showed the weapon stuck in his waistband.

He was described as a Latin, 5 feet 9 and stocky. He was in his late 30s and had dark, curly hair, long side burns and wore a blue jacket and blue jeans. He may have had a cut on one hand, police said.

Woman held after fire

A Pomona woman was arrested Sunday following a fire which caused $11,500 damage to a Pomona home early Sunday morning.

Pomona fire officials arrested Melinda Davis, 2493 Barjud St., and accused her with arson as the result of a fire at the home of Kathleen Puckett, 2574 Cathy St.

Miss Davis remained in Pomona jail this morning in lieu of $10,000 bail.

According to Fire Inspector Tom Fee, Miss Davis is suspected of setting several fires in the Puckett home while Miss Puckett was away from the premises. The fires, which were reported at about midnight, gutted the living room, kitchen, hall and bedrooms of the single-story house. The fire also burned through the roof in several places.

Witnesses reported that the two women had been fighting over a boyfriend, said fire officials.

Montclair man arrested

A 24-year-old Montclair man has been arrested in connection with the robbery of the Stop and Go Market at Mills Avenue and Kingsley Street in Montclair last week, police reported.

Samuel Wright of 10362 Ramona Ave., Montclair, was booked in the West End sheriff's jail this morning for investigation of armed robbery in lieu of $10,000 bail.

Montclair police said that Officer Ed Cisneros on patrol in the area of Ramona Street Saturday night spotted a car matching the description of the suspect vehicle in the armed robbery. The officer located one of the victims of the robbery at the store and took him to identify the vehicle. The victim identified the vehicle and identified Wright as one of the suspects when Wright walked outside to the car and got inside.

Body of Upland woman, 59, found on sidewalk

Upland police are investigating the death of a 59-year-old woman whose body was found early Sunday on a sidewalk leading from an alley behind her apartment at 284 S. Garner St.

Vina Poston, the victim, died of a massive head injury, said the San Bernardino County Coroner's office. An autopsy revealed she suffered several injuries to the back of her head.

When the victim was found by neighbors, she was bare-footed and dressed only in a nightgown, said investigators.

Detectives said it had yet to be determined if the woman's death was accidental or a homicide. Officers questioned numerous friends and neighbors at the scene.

Injuries fatal to boy, 10

A 10-year-old boy, injured Dec. 22 when he was hit by a car in La Puente, died during the weekend in Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

He was Mark Lavorgna, of 16857 Wegman St.

The victim suffered a variety of injuries when he was hit by a car driven by Sylvia Garcia, who lives nearby at 16821 Wegman St. She told sheriff's deputies that the boy rode his bike into the street from a driveway.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, back in the White House after his last scheduled flight on the presidential jet Air Force One, is planning a busy final 17 days as the nation's chief executive.

The President and Mrs. Ford returned to Washington on Sunday night after a two-week Christmas and New Year's vacation at Vail, Colo.

During the flight from Vail, Mrs. Ford told reporters aboard Air Force One that she feels a "sense of relaxation" now that Ford's two-and-one-half year term is coming to an end.

"I am just very happy to have a well, happy husband to spend a few years enjoying life together," she said. "I would have been very happy if he had won but I wasn't completely distraught over the outcome of the election," she added.

The President, who skied nearly every day at the mountain resort, promised reporters before he left for Washington that he would be an active leader during his final days in office. "Because I'm President until Jan. 20," he explained, Jimmy Carter is inaugurated Jan. 20.

During the closing weeks, Ford will:

—Direct the end of government controls on gasoline prices. The move, expected Tuesday, probably will meet strong opposition in Congress.

White House officials said de-cisions would have little or no general effect on gasoline prices. But opponents contend such a move could increase prices by as much as six cents a gallon. Congress has 15 days to override such a presidential order.

—Send to Congress his recommendation for a tax cut, expected to total about $10 billion for individuals, plus tax breaks for corporations.

Congress is not expected to go along, instead leaving any tax cut decision to Jimmy Carter when he takes office.

—Decide whether to reconsider granting blanket amnesty to Vietnam-era draft evaders and military deserters. He is unlikely to alter his previous stand against such a blanket pardon or amnesty.

Mrs. Ford indicated aboard Air Force One she opposes blanket amnesty.

—Introduce legislation proposing that Puerto Rico be admitted as the 51st state. This proposal, made Friday, has been met by considerable opposition both in Congress and in Puerto Rico.

—Decide whether to recommend significant pay raises for members of Congress and 2,500 high federal officials. Ford has indicated he might leave this decision up to Carter.

The President also must complete three documents: the State of the Union message to Congress by Jan. 12, the fiscal 1978 budget to be sent Jan. 17 and an economic message to be sent a day or two later.

Republican politics also will figure prominently on Ford's agenda.

The Republican National Committee will meet late this month to select a successor to Mary Louise Smith, who is resigning as chairman.

Ford plans to hold a second Republican summit meeting this week, with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, former Texas Gov. John B. Connally and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Claudine Longet trial opens today

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Claudine Longet was escorted into the courtroom by her ex-husband, singer Andy Williams, as jury selection began today for her felony manslaughter trial in the shooting death of her lover.

The small, slender Miss Longet, clad in a black minicoat and high brown leather boots, appeared calm as she walked into the Pitkin County District Court surrounded by Williams and her attorneys.

"I am really just here to lend support at the first and to be with my kids," said Williams, seated in the third row of the courtroom.

Pitkin County District Court Judge George E. Lohr told about 70 potential jurors that Miss Longet is charged with "unlawfully, feloniously and recklessly" killing Sabich.

But Lohr cautioned that the charge was only an accusation. "Therefore," he said, "the burden is on the people to prove the charge within a shadow of a doubt."

Among the first excused from jury duty was Anthony Mazze, an attorney who said he was "a personal friend of Mr. Sabich ... I represent Mr. Sabich's estate."

Also excused was J.D. "Joe Dog" Muller on the ground that he also is a lawyer.

Williams said he expected to go back to Los Angeles on Tuesday and return here sometime next week for the beginning of testimony.

Miss Longet "feels pretty certain she is going to be all right," Williams said.

Before the session started, Miss Longet flipped through a folder of what appeared to be newspaper clippings.

Miss Longet, 34, is accused in the March 21 shooting death of professional skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, 31.

It has been predicted the trial could end in as little as two weeks, but Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker has said jury selection could lengthen the trial to a month. Tucker said many potential jurors in this Rocky Mountain ski resort may be disqualified because they knew Sabich, Miss Longet or both of them.

Miss Longet is accused of shooting Sabich with a .22-caliber pistol in the $250,000 home they shared on a mountainside above Aspen.

Miss Longet contends the gun she was holding fired accidentally.

Among possible witnesses is Noel Williams, 12, one of Miss Longet's three children by Williams. The girl reportedly was in the house when Sabich was shot.

To obtain a guilty verdict, the Colorado law requires prosecutors to show Miss Longet "consciously disregarded a substantial and unjustifiable risk" to Sabich in the shooting.

Defense attorney Ronald D. Austin had said Williams, who has remained friends with his ex-wife, would attend at least part of the trial. He was at her side during earlier court appearances.

Bitter Yankee weather in South

By The Associated Press

Bitter Yankee weather — snow, sleet and freezing rain — is sweeping across the South. Ice snapped power lines across Louisiana, plunging many areas into darkness.

The storm swirled out of the Gulf of Mexico across Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and into Georgia and the Carolinas Sunday night. Roads were slick and dangerous from Arkansas to the Atlantic. Only the Florida peninsula was spared.

A single-engine plane crashed in freezing rain and sleet at Jackson, Miss., and its three occupants lay injured for more than three hours before rescuers could find the wreckage. They were hospitalized in stable condition with cuts and broken bones.

Public schools were closed today in Montgomery County, Ala., in west Tennessee and in almost half of Louisiana. Interstate highways 59 and 65 in Birmingham, Ala., and Interstate 20 ramps near Monroe, La., were closed due to icing.

A second storm system stretched from California into the central Rocky Mountains. Flash flood warnings were issued in southern California.

Travelers' advisories for snow were posted over the northern California mountains and in eastern Oregon and Idaho. Winter storm warnings continued for the central mountains of Arizona, northern Nevada and western Utah.

The Great Lakes area also expected more snow with travelers' advisories out for Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

Temperatures around the nation this morning ranged from 74 at Key West, Fla., to 20 below zero at Williston, N.D.

Today temperatures will stay unseasonably cold throughout the country. The Pacific Coast to the Rockies will have snow or freezing rain. More cold rain and sleet will stretch from northern Alabama and Georgia, across South Carolina and central North Carolina and up along the Virginia coast.

Who really is No. 1 won't get answer

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "We're No. 1, we're No. 1," exulted arm-waving Southern California football players after the clock had run down on their 14-6 victory over Michigan in the Rose Bowl.

In salty New Orleans, Tony Dorsett and his Pittsburgh mates, undoubtedly watching on TV, must have been bemused. Ranked No. 1, they had embellished their perfect season with an impressive 27-3 triumph over Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

Yet Southern Cal's coach John Robinson, when asked if he still thought the Rose Bowl decided the best football team in the country, replied tartly:

"Damn right. We took a poll in our dress room right after the game and voted USC No. 1. It was unanimous."

Then Bo Schembechler, the beaten Michigan coach, supported Robinson with the comment: "USC is the quickest and most physical college team I've ever seen. They have my vote for No. 1."

In Miami, Ohio State's Woody Hayes also entertained some grandiose notions after knocking off Colorado in the Orange Bowl. Nebraska, Oklahoma, Alabama and Notre Dame, not to mention Houston, winner of the Cotton Bowl—started campaigning for a recount after scoring notable post-season victories.

Thus, the curtain falls on another period of "Bowlmania," a little piece of America, an affliction that touches us all. Untold millions go bleary-eyed from unbroken hours in front of the television screen. Husbands put themselves in an invisible isolation booth, losing contact with humanity. Family harmony is fractured.

The tragedy is that when the great year-end drama has run its course, there is rarely a finality. Arguments over the relative merits of teams are intensified rather than settled. It's the only big-time sport where there is no script for determining a champion.

The bowl games are three-fourths pageantry and one-fourth football. They are three-hour parades, $60,000 floats, marching bands, pom-pom girls and halftime extravaganzas that would stun the Great Ziegfeld. Held a month after the regular season, they are a 100-yard dash to decide a marathon. They decide nothing. They are not title playoffs. They are one big holiday bash.

Coaches who recognize this traditionally have been the most successful. Oldsters like to tell of the late Gen. Bob Neyland of Tennessee, molder of championship teams, who put his players on such a tight leash they were physically and emotionally drained at bowl time. His bowl record was one of the worst.

Bear Bryant of Alabama, an admirer of Neyland, in recent years went eight straight games without a bowl victory. The bowl record of Woody Hayes never matched his overall performance. Beaten in four of his last six Rose Bowl appearances, he mellowed at Miami—they say—and won.

Johnny Majors of Pittsburgh is the foremost example of the "let-em-have-fun" school. Observers in New Orleans were shocked to see Pitt's imposing beef trust meandering through sinful Bourbon Street. No bed checks. No rigid rules. The Panthers played it loose—and Georgia suffered.

Efforts have been made to set up a football playoff system enveloping the established bowls. Prime movers have been Ara Parseghian, former Notre Dame coach, and Joe Paterno of Penn State. The proposals never got off the ground. The current bowl structure is too heavily commercialized and deeply imbedded—the Rose dates back to 1902, the Sugar, Orange, Cotton and Gator have been around 30 years or longer. The college establishment, seeing millions of dollars roll in yearly, is fearful of offending the golden goose.

The most sensible idea is that of establishing a bracket of 16 top teams—champions of eight major conferences, four "wild cards" from these conferences and four leading independents. Let them start playoffs the first week in December, utilizing the various bowls—Fiesta, Astro-Bluebonnet, Peach, Tangerine, Gator, you name it—and tap the older bowls for the semifinals and finals.

It will never happen. The bowls have become the exclusive province of a handful of major teams—Alabama, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Notre Dame, etc. The same teams year after year.

It's a self-perpetuating society. The fat bowl checks buy more scholarships. More scholarships mean more good players. The rich get richer and who cares if nobody ever knows who is really No. 1.

Beat Walton-less Blazers

Lakers trail by one

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lakers Coach Jerry West says the absence of center Bill Walton from the Portland lineup may have lulled his basketball players before they took a 104-99 win over the Trail Blazers.

"I think we had a tendency to be lethargic tonight because we knew Walton wasn't going to play and it took a while to get untracked," West said of Sunday's National Basketball Association victory. Walton is out with a bruised right kneecap.

The Lakers picked up a full game with the effort and trail Portland by one for the Pacific Division lead.

"I'm happy with this win," West said. "But I have to give credit to Portland for playing so well without Walton." However, the coach added that he is worried about an upcoming road trip.

"I'm not happy with a 7-game trip which takes us out of town for a couple of weeks. I believe it's bad scheduling, and my real problem is I don't know if I'll be able to pack enough clothes in my suitcase."

He said Lucius Allen, who missed the Portland game with a hamstring injury, would make the trip but might not see action.

On Sunday, after trailing by as many as 15 points in the first and second quarters, the Lakers roared back to outscore Portland 28-22 in the third frame. The game was tied at 72 going into the fourth quarter.

Kareem Abdul Jabbar led Los Angeles with 25 points, 17 in the first half. Cazzie Russell scored 16 points, all in the second half.

For Portland, Maurice Lucas scored 31 points — 23 in the second half — and Johnny Davis hit 25 despite playing with a broken nose suffered Saturday night against the Chicago Bulls.

Kuhn suspends Atlanta owner

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner says he "ought to be committed" for making a "cocktail party" joke that brought him a suspension from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The frustrated owner made the comment Sunday night after Kuhn's decision on a one-year suspension for tampering with another team's players was announced by a spokesman for the commissioner in New York.

"I'm thankful he didn't order me shot," Turner said.

The suspension resulted from a remark made to San Francisco owner Bob Lurie about then Giant outfielder Gary Matthews during last October's World Series.

"No matter what you offer Gary, I'll do better," Turner said.

Matthews was playing out his option with the Giants, planning to become a free agent, available to other teams.

"It was a crack, a cocktail party line," Turner said Sunday night. "I ought to be committed to a mental hospital."

Although Turner considered it a casual remark, he said Lurie evidently took it as an offer directed at Matthews and filed a tampering complaint.

"I'm sure the commissioner is trying to do what he thinks is right," said Turner, "but I don't think we did anything wrong."

The mention of financial dealings at that time was illegal, since under baseball rules, no contract talks could be undertaken before the free agent draft on Nov. 4.

The Braves picked Matthews in that draft and signed him two weeks later. But Kuhn ruled Matthews couldn't join the Atlanta club.

In suspending Turner, he lifted his ban.

Kuhn heard Turner's case at a special hearing on the day of the draft and handed down his decision Thursday, according to Bob Wirz, public relations director for the commissioner's office.

The suspension means that Turner will not be able to participate in any operation of the team for a full year, Wirz said.

Board Chairman Bill Bartholomay will be in charge of administrative matters, and player personnel director Bill Lucas will handle baseball-related things, Turner said.

The commissioner also banned the Braves from participating in the June draft of free agent high school and college players.

Pitt awarded national honor

NEW YORK (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh was awarded the MacArthur Bowl by the National Football Foundation Sunday as the nation's outstanding college football team.

The announcement was made by Vincent Draddy, chairman of the board of the Foundation.

Pittsburgh closed out a 12-0 season Saturday by beating Georgia 27-3 in the Sugar Bowl.

Pitt Panthers wait for tally

By Associated Press

Winning Coach Johnny Majors of Pitt and losing Coach Vince Dooley of Georgia were in agreement after the Sugar Bowl game that Pittsburgh deserved to be ranked the nation's top college football team.

The No. 1 rating will not become official, until The Associated Press' final poll Tuesday, but the top-ranked Panthers and Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett were impressive in outclassing fifth-ranked Georgia 27-3 Saturday.

Majors said, "All year long I haven't waved my finger in the air and I haven't worn a No. 1 button. But after the game I told the team it was No. 1, and we all agree that we are."

"I take my hat off to Pitt," said Dooley. "Without doubt they proved themselves the best team in the nation."

Pitt's solid showing served to deflate the national title aspirations that Southern California, Michigan and Maryland might have envisioned. The Panthers finished the season with a 12-0 record.

Pittsburgh's main challenger is expected to be Southern California, which finished the regular season as the nation's No. 3 team, but beat second-ranked Michigan 14-6 in the Rose Bowl Saturday. The Trojans wound up with an 11-1 record and Michigan 10-2.

In other Saturday bowl games, Southwest Conference champion Houston, No. 6, downed fourth-ranked Maryland 30-21 in the Cotton Bowl and Ohio State topped Colorado 27-10 at night in the Orange Bowl.

Houston's victory over Maryland gave the Cougars a 10-2 record and knocked the Terrapins out of the undefeated ranks. Maryland finished at 11-1.

Sunday, 10th-ranked Texas A&M overwhelmed Florida 37-14 in the Sun Bowl, the West beat the East 30-14 in the Shrine Game at Stanford, Calif., and the North edged the South 21-20 in the American Bowl at Tampa, Fla.

Nebraska outlasted Texas Tech 27-24 in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl and Kentucky blanked North Carolina 21-0 in the Peach Bowl on Friday.

In Pitt's conquest of Georgia, Dorsett compiled 202 yards on 32 carries and scored one touchdown, while quarterback Matt Cavanaugh tallied once and threw for another TD.

Over-all, the Panthers amassed 480 yards, including 288 rushing, and bottled up the Bulldogs' offense.

Southern Cal, the Pacific-8 champion, gained its victory over Big Ten co-champion Michigan although All-American running back Ricky Bell was sidelined most of the game with a concussion. Freshman Charles White proved a capable replacement, collecting 114 yards on 32 carries.

Bell has recovered from the head injury and will be able to play in next Saturday's Hula Bowl at Honolulu, a Southern Cal spokesman said Sunday. Dorsett also will participate in the all-star game for college seniors.

Southern Cal Coach John Robinson said, "You've got to feel good about the way Charles White played. Charles is already one of the best breakaway runners I've ever been around."

Quarterback Vince Evans of the Trojans completed 14 of 20 passes for 181 yards and scored once. Southern Cal's two touchdowns came on long drives, with White getting the other score. Rob Lytle produced the lone Michigan TD on a one-yard run.

In the 42nd annual Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Tony Franklin and George Woodard triggered the Texas Aggies' triumph over Florida.

Franklin, a barefoot kicker, booted three towering field goals, including one that carried 62 yards, a record for major college bowl games. Woodard, a pile-driving fullback, ran for three scores and gained 124 yards rushing.

"It cleared the bar by some 10 or 15 yards," Franklin said of his record-breaking field goal. Franklin, who has kicked an NCAA record 65-yarder, added, "I think I'll get that 70-yarder some day." Franklin, a soccer-style kicker, will be a junior next season.

All-American Gary Green of Baylor set an East-West game record with an 81-yard punt return for a second-period touchdown which helped carry the West to its victory over the East in the Shrine classic. Green's score put the West comfortably ahead 24-7.

Late in the third period, the Baylor defensive back returned a punt 54 yards, setting up a 34-yard field goal by Mike Michel of Stanford. Michel set two East-West game records by booting three field goals and kicking a 49-yarder which was the longest field goal in the classic's history.

SAL basketball begins Tuesday

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Sports Writer

Ganesha High, the only team to break Garey's monopoly on the San Antonio League basketball championship in recent years, will begin its bid to unseat the Vikings again in a 4:45 p.m. game Tuesday at Pomona.

Garey, meanwhile, will host Chino, Upland will visit Claremont and Damien will travel to Montclair in the remaining SAL openers, all scheduled for 4:45 p.m.

The league's midweek games, after a year of starting at 7 p.m., are back to a 4:45 p.m. starting time. Junior varsity contests will begin at 3:15 p.m.

League coaches are generally unhappy with the earlier game time, since crowds are smaller when working parents are unable to attend. But, under pressure from teachers who have to supervise at the games and who don't want to work two nights a week, the principals of the SAL schools voted to resume midweek day games.

Friday games will continue to start at 8 p.m.

Ganesha, fresh from its first championship in the 36-year history of the Chino Invitational Tournament, appears to be not only the team to beat in the SAL, but one of the stronger 3A schools in the CIF.

The Giants' 9-4 record includes two losses in the prestigious San Dimas Tournament of Champions.

But Ganesha played much better in last week's Chino Tournament than in the T of C. Coach Garey Fulkerson was quite pleased with his squad's play in the final two games of that classic, when his players were more able than before to carry out his directions. The rapid-fire Giants displayed the ability to control the ball and set up a more deliberate offense than usual, especially in an 83-65 semifinal win over Upland.

"A lot of people don't realize it, but a helter-skelter type offense is what we want — that's the kind of offense we run. It's just when they (the Ganesha players) don't helter-skelter the way I want them to helter-skelter that I get upset."

Ganesha boasts three of the league's top players in junior forward James Verdon, senior guard Steve Polee and junior center George Hawthorne. The three have combined for over 43 points per game so far, with Verdon averaging 18.

But the Giants' primary strength is rebounding, an area in which they have devastated most of their opponents.

Pomona (1-7) figures to be totally outmanned by the Giants. The Red Devils' leading scorer, Floyd Mixon, is averaging only 11.5 points.

Garey will open its bid for a third straight SAL title against a much smaller Chino squad. The Vikings (6-4) won the Banning Tournament but were eliminated in two games from last week's Orange Tournament. Leading Garey have been center James Lofton (almost 19 points per game) and guard-forward Herbi Banks (nearly 17).

Upland's game at Claremont will be a rematch of Thursday's third-place game in the Chino tourney. The Wolfpack won that one handily, 71-59. Claremont is 9-3, Upland is 9-4.

Montclair (5-6) has a better record than Damien (3-6), but the Spartans have won two of their last three in the Pius X Tournament. Behind Bill Duffy's 27 points, Damien earned a 60-46 decision Thursday over Dominguez, a team that Ganesha beat by a single point (71-70) earlier.

Montclair has already exceeded last year's win total of four games.

Hunter eligible tonight

Poly makes home debut

By BILL LANGLEY
Sports Editor

Cal Poly will greet one welcome face to its first home basketball game of the season at Kellogg Gym tonight and hope all the old faces return.

Former Ganesha High star Broderick Hunter will be wearing a Bronco uniform for the first time this evening in the 8 p.m. tipoff against Azusa Pacific.

Hunter, an all-Valley All-Pomona Valley and All-CIF player at Ganesha in 1974 when he teamed with USC's Cleave Porter, transferred to Poly after spending his freshman season at Arizona State.

After sitting out one year, the 6-foot-6 sophomore gain his eligibility today when Poly began its winter quarter.

Coach Don Hogan is hoping all of his other players are still eligible tonight after getting their final fall quarter grade reports.

"Considering his long layoff, Hunter should be a big attribute for us," Hogan said. "He is still having some injury problems but he has looked good in sports during practice."

Hunter underwent surgery on a toe in November after suffering an injury during a pick-up game.

Poly opens its home schedule with a 3-7 record after spending December touring the nation. Six of the losses were to major college foes including San Francisco and Notre Dame.

Hogan was encouraged about the pre-Christmas trip to the Bay Area and Reno.

"I feel we got a great boost in our Reno game," Hogan said. "We could have laid down and died but we stayed right in there. We come home on a positive note."

Hogan will probably stick with his regular lineup of forwards Jack Gamulin and Henry Randolph, center Don Johnson and guards Charles Johnson and Tom Ispas.

Gamulin leads the Broncos in scoring with a 14.2 average followed by Randolph (12.5), Don Johnson (10.8) and Charles Johnson (10.1). Randolph is the top rebounder with 8.8 per game.

Poly already owns a 63-59 win over Azusa Pacific on the Cougars' home court but the history of the series has shown there is no home advantage.

Poly also beat APC last year on the road but lost the return contest at Kellogg Gym.

Cliff Hamlow's Cougars are 4-8 for the season after winning the Arrowhead Tournament at Turlock last week. Guard Mike Street is Azusa's top scoring threat.

Women's Day slated Saturday at MSAC

Gloria Weber, coordinator for the Department of State's International Women's Year events, will be the keynote speaker on the Mt. San Antonio College campus Saturday for the opening session of Women's Day, 1977.

Area women are invited to visit the college to learn more about what it offers in personal development, career planning and training and societal and professional opportunities. All events are free.

Child care will be available for youngsters from 2½ to 10 years old. Reservations for child care must be made in advance by calling the Student Center, Extension 353. Lunch for each child must be provided by the parent. Registration will open for the day-long activities at 8:30 a.m. on the patio of the Social Science Center. Gwen Pinneo, chairperson for the MSAC Women's Caucus, College President Eldon Pearce, and Associated Students' President Vernon Lewis will open the session with welcoming remarks at 9 in the Center's Auditorium. Women's Caucus treasurer Eula Gray will introduce Mrs. Weber at 9:15 a.m. There will be a short break for refreshments prior to the four concurrent workshops which will run from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

"Female Sexuality" will be discussed by psychologist Joan Woodland; "Society's Impact on Men," with the film, "Men's Lives" will be discussed by Dennis Mayer, vice president of student services; "Careers for Women — What's Out There?" will be presented by a panel moderated by John Rogers, assistant dean of occupational placement. Virginia Dukes, placement officer for the Claremont Colleges; Laverne West, job opportunities coordinator for General Dynamics, and Martha Diaz, MSAC Career Center counselor assistant, will provide an overview of the careers open to women, and Mary Conroy, author and professor of physical education at California State University at Los Angeles, will offer some practical advice on "Common Sense — Self Defense."

Coffee and punch will be provided by the college and the Associated Students during the lunch break at noon. Attendees may bring their own sack lunches or purchase box lunches on campus. During luncheon, musical diversion will be presented by an all-female jazz band.

A panel composed of MSAC students Ellie Elrott, Sylvia Vargas, Peni Powers and Dolores Terrones, moderated by MSAC counselor Marilyn Kaecke-Kanthak, will provide valuable information on "What Mt. San Antonio College Means to Me," at 1:30 p.m.

At 2:15 p.m., visitors will have the opportunity to complete applications for admission to the spring semester. Counselors will be on hand to assist students with class choices and to discuss majors available at the college.

Ron Gaddie worms his way into prospering business

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

Ron Gaddie started his "hobby" of worm farming 10 years ago with $20 and lots of determination.

That determination and small investment has paid off with the North American Bait Farms in Ontario becoming a highly profitable business that is international in scope.

"People hear the word worm and they think bait," Gaddie said. "But worms are more than bait. They contribute much to conservation and ecology. One of our major pollution problems is trash. Worms will eat anything that is biodegradable. That means anything that will decompose."

"Each person in a household produces about 67 pounds of waste per month. Worms turn paper, cardboard and trash into a dirt-type fertilizer. The only things they can't eat is plastic, glass, tin cans and some synthetic fabrics."

In addition to the farming operation, Gaddie now has a publishing company, tackle store and shipping and retail sales office on the property at 1207 S. Palmetto Ave.

"I started the business as a hobby," Gaddie recalled. "My back was injured and I'd had three back operations. I wanted something to tinker with so I started this. The company will gross over a million dollars this year in the sale of worms and worm products."

'I've worked with these things for over nine years and it still amazes me ...'

The worms at the two-acre farm recycle about 1,000 tons of animal manure and trash a year. Projects have been conducted with the City of Ontario and the City of Los Angeles. The latter delivered 7½ tons of shredded refuse to the farm.

Gaddie allocated one million worms to each ton and "they consumed it in 28 days." The remaining trash is barely noticeable and covers the ground only in spots. Most of it is now in dirt fertilizer form.

The Ontario trash was 10 tons of unsorted refuse, including 1,800 pounds of plastic and glass that could not be consumed by the worms. It took 78 days for the worms to recycle the Ontario refuse.

And there is no odor from these projects or others at the farm.

"To me it's amazing," Gaddie said. "I've worked with these things for over nine years and it still amazes me. Worms aerate the soil so the water can go into it better. They take decomposed matter and turn it into castings to improve the soil.

"The worm is one animal that does so much that people don't realize."

Gaddie and all other worm farmers formerly harvested millions of worms by hand until the invention of an automatic harvesting machine by two farmers who got tired of the old, and slow, process of sorting worms by hand.

"This machine is the best thing that has happened in the industry for years. It used to be a lot of hard work. We used to do all the harvesting by hand and separating the worms by hand. We'd have five girls come in for the harvesting alone. This machine harvests more in a day than the girls could do in a week," Gaddie reported.

The Ontario man has also contributed a product to the worm industry that has made farming more profitable and attractive. His formula for a special worm food is shipped coast to coast in the United States and sold in five foreign countries. The formula makes the worms grow and breed faster.

Worms are sold at North American as fish bait and fertilizer for organic gardening. Side products, besides the feed, include castings and special equipment sold to other worm farmers and distributors.

Gaddie and Don Douglass co-authored a book entitled "Earthworms For Ecology and Profit," but couldn't get it accepted by existing publishing companies.

"They told us it'd never sell. That made me mad so we said we'd publish it ourselves. That's how the publishing company started. Now we're publishing and distributing about 10 books through Bookworm Publishing," Gaddie said.

And not only does the Gaddie-Douglass book sell successfully among worm farmers, but it is also included on many library shelves.

Gaddie also travels throughout the world as a consultant on vermiculture, or the practice of raising worms. He helped create a box that is recyclable for shipping the worms in and a small note in the corner advises farmers to feed the box to the worms. A worm with a cowboy hat on and a shovel in hand with the slogan "Your Friend in Ecology" is Gaddie's trademark for North American Bait Farms Inc.

Gaddie's enthusiasm is immeasurable and a major reason for the success of the operation in southwest Ontario. His license plate reads "1 WORM 1" while his wife, Barbara's car license is "2 WORM 2."

"Most people think the worm business is a hobby. I did once. But it's not anymore. It's a growing industry."

"The educational process has been done through the press mainly. Most people don't know what worms can really do, but they're more than bait," Gaddie stated.

His enthusiasm goes a step further than most because he also sees the worm as a major source of pure protein. Last year he launched a worm baking contest that included entrants throughout the nation. He convinced the nutrition department at Cal Poly to coordinate the contest and lined up the judges.

The judges included Dr. Ruth Davis, chairman of the Cal Poly nutrition department; Dean Saunders, KLAC disc jockey; and Dr. Ronald Taylor, author of "Butterflies In My Stomach." Gaddie was also a judge.

"We had a ball," Gaddie laughed. "A reporter there was a little bit reluctant to try the refreshments, which were worm cookies. But when he finally got up enough nerve to eat one, he found out it wasn't so bad after all."

"I don't expect people to rush right out and start eating worms. But as a protein substance, it will be of great importance one of these days."

The winning recipe netted $500 for its cook. The recipes included earthworm omelette, earthworm patties supreme, applesauce surprise cake, ver de terre in deviled shrimp hors d'oeuvres, ver de terre stuffed peppers and curried ver de terre and pea soufflé.

Pomona coed finds culture shock during Japan study

GAIL BROWN

A Pitzer College student from Pomona who went to Japan recently to study competition and cooperation in Japanese society, says she wasn't prepared for the culture shock that awaited her.

Gail Brown, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sorrell N. Brown of Pomona, discussed her experiences during the holidays with others of the 33 Southland college students who studied in Japan under an annual exchange program.

The coed is an experienced traveler. During her junior year at Pomona High School, she was an exchange student in Switzerland. She returned from that trip to serve as senior class president and to appear before many groups sharing her observations.

Now a scholarship student at Pitzer College, Miss Brown found that instead of competing, the Japanese she met "have a way of working together, using each other's idiosyncracies and creativity to represent everyone in the group."

"I discovered that Japanese society emphasizes group cooperation and discourages 'individualism.' Among the people I observed, students almost always wore uniforms and the businessmen wore dark grey suits. Taking initiative on your own is considered 'kojin-teki' — egotistical and disloyal."

Focusing her research on primary school age children, Miss Brown found that even young children seem to adhere to this norm.

She noticed, for example, at a casual Christmas party at her house that unlike American children who may nibble during the preparations, not one Japanese child snatched a bite of anything until the teacher gave permission.

Not even the games would start haphazardly or by individual initiative, Miss Brown noted. "No one would make a move until the teacher officially started the activity, whatever it was."

Paradoxically, the American said competition to get into the best schools in order to get the best jobs is very intense and starts when a person is 4 years old.

The process — called "shiken-jigoku" or "examination torment" — takes place every year in April. Beginning in nursery school, the exams are a weeding out process which determines who goes on to higher education and who doesn't.

"In Japan, going to the top nursery schools improves the chances of getting into the best elementary schools and so on through high school," Miss Brown observed. She found that only those from the best high schools are accepted into the prestigious universities.

And graduation from the top universities guarantees a high level job for life, she was told.

In recent years, an alternative to this "lock step" system has been developed. According to Miss Brown, new kinds of nursery schools called "escalator schools" are gaining in popularity. In this system, both children and their parents must face grueling examinations. Students who receive high marks are then spared other examinations until the time to take college entrance tests.

What distinguishes Japanese-style competition from the American variety, the Pitzer coed decided, is motivation.

"My Japanese friends seemed to accept all the years of competitive examinations, not so much out of a fear of failure as an appreciation of the importance of success," she said.

In the words of a friend: "My success reflects on the honor of my family, my club, and my school. It is custom to take exams; custom to accept traditions."

Commitment is a recurring theme. Your family, your school, and the club you join at the university determine your status and provide emotional, social, even financial support. What is expected in return: total commitment.

Now back at Pitzer, Miss Brown is pursuing her major in sociology with a possible double major in child development. In her spare time, she tutors foreign students at Sycamore School in Claremont and supervises recreation at Montvue School in Pomona.

Nine injured in five valley traffic accidents

Nine persons were injured in five valley traffic accidents over the New Year's weekend.

Four young people were hurt when their car skidded on wet pavement on a curve on Decorah Road west of Platina Street, Diamond Bar, Sunday afternoon. The car driven by Dawn K. Rose, 17, of 2611 Valley Blvd., Pomona, ran into a parked car registered to James A. Stuthers of 23518 Decorah Rd.

Miss Rose and her three passengers were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. She and Phillip Rose, 15, of the same address, and Randy Barrett, 15, of 2635 W. Valley Blvd., Pomona, were released after treatment. Scott Gurney, 10, of 1409 Evenwood St., La Puente, was transferred to Kaiser Fontana Hospital.

Sharyn L. Kostich, 28, of Van Nuys, and her passenger, Gail Baker, 25, of North Hollywood, were injured when the car driven by Miss Kostich ran into the rear of a truck trailer driven by Henry R. Palacios, 59, of La Habra, on the Pomona Freeway east of Golden Springs Road, Diamond Bar, Sunday morning. They were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and transferred to County-USC Medical Center.

Two Los Angeles area men escaped serious injury early Sunday morning when their sports car ran off Mt. Baldy Road and crashed over an embankment at the Mills Avenue intersection in Claremont.

Both the driver, Melvin Philpot, 29, of Los Angeles, and his passenger, Gary Saunders, 24, of Sherman Oaks, were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where they were treated and transferred later to County-USC

Medical Center for further treatment. Both had facial cuts, police said.

Officers reported that Philpot was westbound in Mt. Baldy Road shortly before 6 a.m. when his car missed the turn at Mills and ran off the road. They said Philpot told them that he swerved to avoid hitting a large bird which was in the road.

In Pomona, a child was injured when the car in which she was riding was involved in a collision with a hit-run driver, police said. The child, Maria A. Velasquez, 8, of Pomona, had head and leg injuries, but required no medical attention.

The driver, Guillermo H. Mancillas, 20, of Pomona, told police that he was northbound in San Antonio Avenue late Saturday night when the other driver ran a stop sign at First Street and they collided.

Police said they followed a trail of water, apparently from the hit-run car's broken radiator.

Master contract expected

Classified employees of the Claremont Unified School District will present a proposed master contract for the 1977-78 school year to the Claremont school board at its 8 p.m. meeting today at the district Education Center.

Classified employees are being represented by Chapter 200 of the California School Employees Association.

Employee negotiations are being carried out according to the rules of the Rodda Act.

In other matters, the board will receive a status report regarding the Base Line Road traffic safety problem, and is expected to adopt proposed revised policies on classified personnel vacations and smog episode criterias.

Mockery at West Point

The Corps of Cadets at West Point has voted to retain the academy's much-criticized code of honor as is.

The penalty for any violation of the code — which states that "a cadet shall not lie, cheat or steal, or tolerate those who" — remains automatic expulsion. Period.

At issue was a proposed change which would have introduced an element of flexibility in the handling of code violators by permitting an honor board to consider a cadet's experience, attitude or previous record. The cadets rejected the change by a vote of 2,523 for to 1,295 against, or 25 votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

Thus the nation's future Army officers have decreed that there is no such thing as extenuating circumstances, no such thing as different degrees of guilt. A cadet who does 18 pushups and claims he did 20 (an actual case of an honor code violation) is as unfit to serve his country as a cadet who pilfers his neighbor's wallet.

Yet at about the same time as the cadets were holding their referendum, a special commission convened in the wake of the worst scandal in the academy's history — a scandal which resulted in the expulsion of 121 cadets for allegedly cheating on a take-home test — was coming to a precisely opposite conclusion.

The commission, composed of both active and retired officers and headed by former astronaut Frank Borman, has recommended that the 121 cadets be immediately reinstated and that the honor system be reformed to allow punishments other than expulsion, depending upon the offense.

The wording of the honor code should be retained as it is, says the commission's report, but cadet honor boards should be allowed to take into account whether an offense was self-reported and be given the latitude to issue warning or to order counseling for inexperienced cadets accused of trivial offenses. In other words, the punishment should be made to fit the crime.

The present West Point honor code, the commission found, actually rewards the dishonorable while punishing those who admit mistakes. This has turned cadets "cool on honor."

In the commission's words, "Cadets soon realize that those who have enough integrity to admit their mistakes suffer the rigid penalty of expulsion... while others violate the code with impunity and go on to graduate."

The commission also cites "widespread violations of the honor code, the gross inadequacies in the honor system, the failure of the academy to act decisively with respect to honor problems and the other academy shortcomings." Some members of the commission commented on the fact that activities that were considered mere pranks during their days at the academy are not considered to be honor code violations.

The Pentagon has said that it will take the commission's report under advisement.

In the meantime, many Americans will withhold their applause at the cadets' decision not to dilute the honor code until such time as they see some evidence that how a man behaves at West Point has all that much bearing on how he behaves in later life.

Career military men are no more honorable than the average run of people in other walks of life. Indeed, the case can be made that they are too often a great deal less honorable, as witness the inflated "body counts" of the enemy during the Vietnam war, the official deception of the American people about the bombing of Cambodia, the passing of the buck for the responsibility for My Lai, the recurrent revelations about cozy relationships between Pentagon procurement officers and the defense industry.

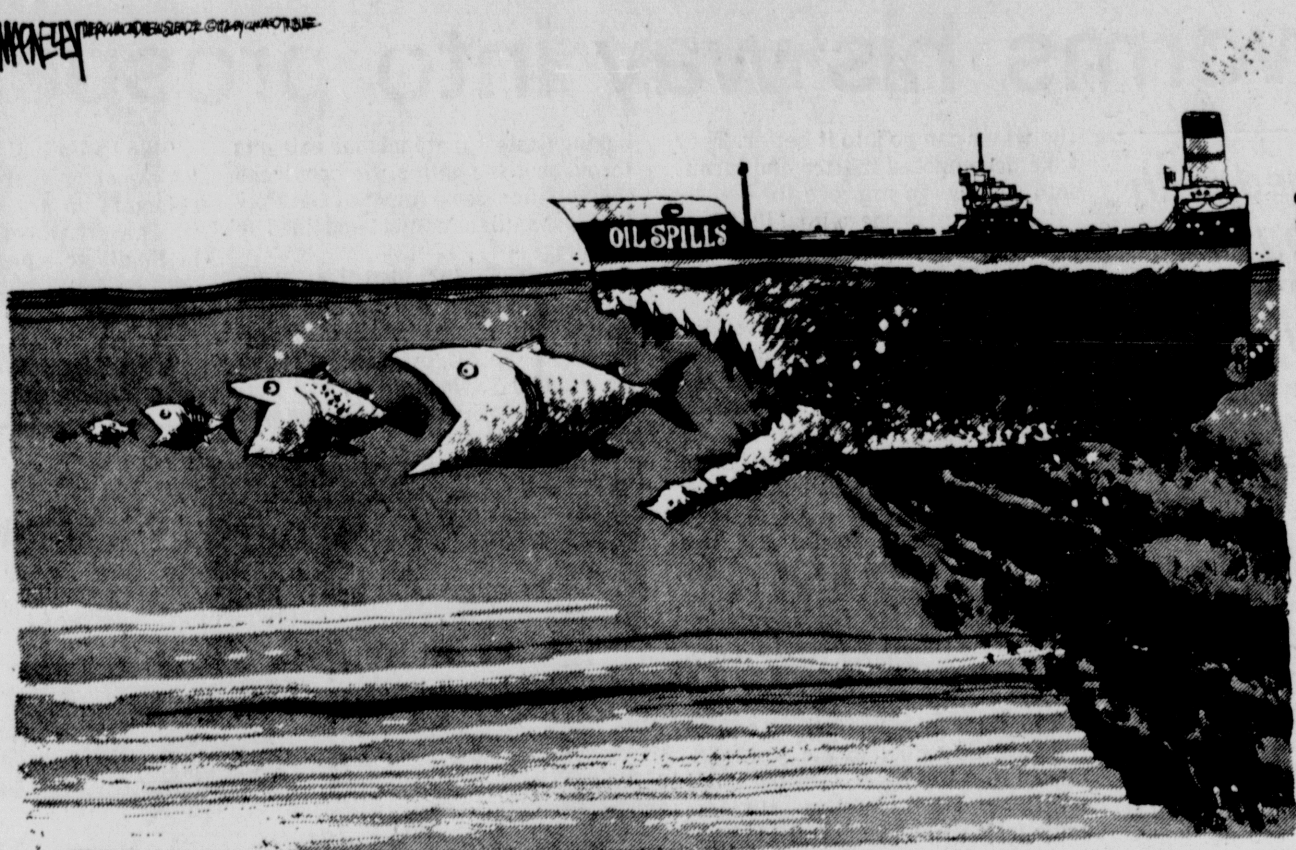

The West Point honor code not only does not encourage honor, either in that artificial environment or in the real world, but by elevating petty infractions to the same level as truly serious offenses, it makes a mockery of the very word.

Think on these things

What else means anything if we do not try to find deep inner-peace — personal peace — in this new year? What can lead us away from old injuries, old wounds that are not yet healed? Frequently, we don't know they haven't healed until some incident opens up the fears again.

Personal peace is that inner quiet that settles softly like morning mist filtering into the hollows and crevasses and nothing can stop it. As Charles Dickens sagely stated, "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness... it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair..." It is simply life — but true peace is personal peace that comes in spite of all these seasons.

Eulogizers on public payroll

WASHINGTON — The life and times of Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., the darling of the Pentagon, are chronicled in two laudatory books. Both were quietly compiled, we have now discovered, by three persons whom Hebert put on the public payroll.

The crotchety Hebert, one of the grand old curmudgeons of Congress, is retiring after a 36-year career dedicated primarily to championing causes dear to the hearts of the military-industrial complex.

His memory will be preserved for posterity, however, in two literary tomes. The first, entitled "Creed of a Congressman: F. Edward Hebert of Louisiana," was published in 1970. The second, with the even more epic title of "Last of the Titans: The Life and Times of Congressman F. Edward Hebert of Louisiana," was published this year.

A self-styled historian named Glenn Conrad assisted the congressman with both works. He was employed by the publisher, the Center for Louisiana Studies. But he also turned up on Hebert's congressional payroll during the preparation of the two books.

He was paid by the taxpayers for five months in 1969 and seven months in 1970 at an annual scale that bounced from $2,280 to $6,337 with a $1,000 bonus. Again this year, he appeared on the public payroll briefly as a "writer" at the monthly rate of $1,000.

The first book, according to Library of Congress records, was "edited and evaluated by Virginia R. Burguiere." Her name is also listed on Hebert's government payroll. Her salary was boosted from $5,380 to more than $19,000 in June 1969, at about the time she began her editing and evaluating.

The congressman helped to write the second tribute to himself; his co-author is identified as John McMillan. For more than two years, McMillan has been listed on the congressional payroll as a "special aide" at an annual salary of more than $22,000.

On the scale of values upon which statesmen are usually judged, Hebert might appear to be overrated by his biographers. This does not mean, however, that he is undeserving of the homage he receives from the Pentagon and from the manufacturers of U.S. armaments.

In many ways, Eddie Hebert has been more valuable to the military-munitions combine than any four-star general. He fought for military appropriations on Capitol Hill with a valor above and beyond the call of duty.

Yet he began his career, ironically, as a crusading newsman who exposed corruption in Louisiana. He came to Congress as a reformer, battling the special interests that he later embraced.

Once he opposed the political lords whom he now symbolizes. But today is his last as a member of the House. Tomorrow he will give up the massive, curved, two-tiered desk, with the two small American flags flanking him and the ostentatious fountain outside his door.

The military brass have already bade him farewell. It was a $27,158 farewell, with a blaring of trumpets and rolling of drums, in Hebert's hometown of New Orleans. Four military bands, one from each of the services, played swan songs for the old curmudgeon. The Army also flew in its 60-man Chorus and Herald Trumpets, which usually serenades heads of state.

It was the least the Pentagon could do for the hero of so many military budget battles.

Footnote: Conrad acknowledged that he had helped Hebert write both books. He couldn't recall whether he was paid for the work on the first book, he said, but he worked on the second book "during my vacation time."

Neither Burguiere nor McMillan, both still on the public payroll, would talk to our reporters. "Congressman Hebert has issued orders," each repeated, "that no one on his staff is to talk to Jack Anderson or anyone on his staff."

Hebert gave the same response from New Orleans. "I have nothing to say to Jack Anderson or any member of his staff," he growled. When we pressed him for his side of the story, he said: "I don't want to hang up." Then he did.

DUCK SOUP: In the past, we have criticized the Interior Department's handsome, hardworking Undersecretary Kent Frizzell for putting special interests ahead of the public interest.

But a few days ago, he outdid himself; he made a $100 million decision in an electric power dispute. The decision is worth a cool $100 million to Pacific Gas and Electric Co., at the expense of the consumers.

The issue was whether the government should collect higher payments from PG&E for wholesaling its electricity. The customers that purchase the electricity from the government, including many municipalities and agencies, must make up the estimated $100 million difference.

Earlier this year, Asst. Interior Secretary Jack Horton ruled that the huge West Coast utility should increase its payments. But Frizzell huddled privately with PG&E's lawyer and lobbyist without inviting the consumers to participate.

Thereafter, he kept the case up in the air until a few days ago. Although he has only a few more days before the Democrats will take over, he bound the Carter administration to a ruling that will save PG&E $100 million. Then Frizzell flew off for some duck hunting.

Footnote: We couldn't reach Frizzell in the Oklahoma rushes for his comment. His spokesman admitted that Frizzell had overruled Horton following the private audience with the utility barons. The spokesman denied, however, that this was either illegal or inappropriate. He said the consumers got a full hearing later.

Bella more than purple words

WASHINGTON (NEA) — I once bumped into Bella Abzug in the corridors of Congress. Literally bumped. I was coming hence, she was going thence, and: bump, sprawl! As she recovered her papers she commented on the question of my ancestry, to which I replied, if I remember it right, something like: "So's your old man."

All of this is by way of confessing a personal bias regarding Ms. Abzug's personality, if not Ms. Abzug. She is no lady. She may be one of the driving influences in the lives of new women, perhaps new politics also, but she is deficient in restraint. Her mouth knows no subtlety. Her language is an arsenal of billingsgate.

I am not alone in this assessment. She once unloaded on the floor of the House a word that had to be described in the morning-after prints as a synonym for "male animal manure." And a former associate, Frances Cash, says she had to leave Abzug's employ because all the women seemed to do was "call everyone a dum dum" or worse; Ms. Cash, by the way, eventually got a job as a construction worker.

This is not to totally condemn the representative from New York City on the occasion of her forced retirement from Capitol Hill. On the contrary she has for the past six years aided meritoriously in the progress of numerous causes, not the least of which is the nation's democratic process. Rude, yes; worthless, not hardly.

Until Ms. Abzug arrived on Congress the circumstances for women there were less than equitable. The appropriate job for them was on the Beauty Shop Subcommittee. On the floor, during debate, they were always referred to as "the charming gentlewoman" by slick honorables who then proceeded to crush their amendments. "Madam," as one male member is alleged to have put it, "please know your place!"

Abzug fouled the works, for the better. When they tried to bury her urban voice in the agriculture subcommittee, she declined by saying that the only plant growing in her district (the Bronx) was marijuana. She agreed not to wear her hats in the chamber, but this was her one concession. She was there to toot, and she did.

The gentlemen were ruffled, of course. When an Abzug amendment was due for a vote, her critics would stand outside the door to remind colleagues to cast negative ballots. Once, in an unprecedented conspiracy, the men brought an Abzug measure to the floor well before its schedule so that she would not be there to argue its merits, and so that a quick and decisive defeat would be assured.

Eventually, many of the male members came not to fear Abzug so much as to accept her. As she matured, she also mellowed; well, at least she stopped giving the bird to opposing chauvinists. New House Speaker Tip O'Neill says the first call he gets each day is still "Bella, trying to tell me how to run the place," but there is less contempt for her, and there is even concession that she's earned her spurs.

In earning them, Abzug has had to overcome two handicaps. Aside from being female, she is an unrepentant radical. Indeed, she has been called a Communist sympathizer. In six years she never voted for a single military appropriation, and even during the last Captive Nations Week, in a speech of commemoration, she condemned Nazism and Indira Gandhi but could not find any fault with Russia.

So far left is the gentlewoman that the Socialist Party of New York, hinting of national security, once refused to support her campaign. And yet Abzug has refused to play politics with her philosophy. That philosophy can be severe — she fought to keep Dick Nixon, Jerry Ford and Nelson Rockefeller from holding office — but it has helped raise the tolerance level in the democracy to new and mostly healthy levels.

And now, defeated in the last election, Bella Abzug is reportedly interested in a Jimmy Carter appointment to the administrative branch of government. God forbid. She has served the nation well in Congress, but the idea of her in the sensitive bureaucracy is boggling. Well, maybe an ambassadorship, say to Bouvet Island, where, in the South Atlantic, her abrasiveness would be least likely to lead us into war.

Doc Peirsol Just in jest

Remember when cod liver oil was supposed to cure every known disease and your folks told you that if you chewed your food slowly you would live to a ripe old age? — And while we are remembering, whatever happened to wooden bathtubs, and Sunday dinners in the early afternoon following church services? When did kids stop hollering down rain barrels? Why don't movies end any more with the hero and heroine walking slowly hand in hand into the sunset? — Finally, to complete our little trip down memory lane, who can ever forget that once when Tabby gave birth to a litter of kittens, you couldn't get rid of them mercifully by taking them to the Humane Society or the city pound. What you had to do was put them in a sack, and take them down to the river and drown them.

The height of futility is forcing one's self on someone or some group that wants absolutely nothing to do with you. Of course, with the help of a good ACLU lawyer it can usually be accomplished; but unfortunately, although the immediate battle may be won, enforced toleration only results eventually in everyone losing the war. — However, in view of the amazing accomplishments of ACLU lawyers, I am a bit surprised that none of them as yet has sought cease and desist legislation which would prohibit labeling a current threatened epidemic the "Swine Flu." A pretty good case could be made that such labeling is not only an ethnic slur but also constitutes racial defamation.

Summer jobs going, going —

By EARL G. WATERS

Despite whatever programs may be undertaken by the new Congress and Jimmy Carter when he assumes the Presidency, the outlook on employment during this year remains bleak, especially in California. Even with some dramatic efforts on the part of the federal government present predictions are that it will take time.

California will be in particularly bad shape unless there is considerably more rainfall. While its dams and reservoirs carried it through fairly well during the past summer, most are now drained to the point that without at least normal precipitation and snowpacks the next summer will be a bad one. If the state suffers from lack of water it will not only affect the farmers but the farmworkers thus adding to the unemployment.

Students who depend upon farm work during the summer will also suffer. Their prospects for summer work are already poor.

Congressman Harold T. "Bizz" Johnson of Roseville has sent out an alert to students who will want summer jobs. He warns that while the federal government may have about 10,000 openings for students this summer, the deadline for applications for many of these is Jan. 15. And, he says, "Competition will be tougher than ever."

Johnson advises that the Civil Service Commission has prepared a booklet titled "Opportunities in the Federal Government" which can be obtained through congressmen. It probably also can be at least reviewed in the commission's offices located in most federal buildings. Also it would be expected that high school and college counselors would have copies of the publication.

Johnson also states that there will be a limited number of openings for young people in the National Parks Service and those interested should write to the service's Western Regional Office, Box 360063, San Francisco. The deadline for applications there is Feb. 15.

Johnson's flyer, while a little late for the Jan. 15 deadline, is still a timely reminder that those who hope for summer jobs had better get hustling now. And that applies to any work whether it be federal, state or with private employers. With thousands upon thousands of experienced and skilled workers unemployed and hordes of college grads still walking the streets, there is no reason to believe the competition for student jobs outside the federal government will be any less tough.

As usual there will be some opportunities with the state and perhaps even with local governments. If there isn't considerably more rainfall to counter the recent drought, there will probably be more than the usual openings for forest fire fighters, both with the state and federal services. For the best leads to summer jobs in state service for students, one should probably inquire at the State Personnel Board. School counselors, too, should have some ideas.

Another thought is to make inquiries as to job possibilities of your own assemblyman or state senator. Since they all now have field offices and aides within their districts, that shouldn't be too difficult. The main idea is to start early and keep trying. Most potential employers are sympathetic, for many have gone through the same experience of trying to get work as students. Don't be timid and don't be afraid to call back at the same places, especially if you get any encouragement. Persistence often makes the difference. And sometimes you make some friends even if you don't get the particular job you seek.

The thing to remember is that, the labor market being what it is, no one is going to come looking for you.

Ann Landers Musings of a normal father

Dear Ann: Now that so much has been said about your survey that revealed 70 per cent of America's couples would not have had children if they had it to do over again — PLEASE rerun that great column, "Musings Of A Good Father On A Bad Day." — Baltimore Fan

Dear Fan: I thought you'd never ask! Here it is: It breaks your heart to see them stretched out relaxing around swimming pools in Florida and California — sun-tanned and miserable on the decks of boats, trotting off to Europe like lonesome fools — with more money to spend, time to enjoy themselves and nothing to worry about.

Childless couples become so selfish and wrapped up in their own concerns you feel sorry for them. They don't fight over the kid's discipline. They miss all the fun of "doing without" for the child's sake. They go along and do as they darn well please. It's a pathetic sight.

Everyone should have children. No one should be allowed to escape the wonderful experiences attached to each stage in the development of the young. The happy memories of those early years — saturated mattresses, waiting for sitters who don't show, midnight asthma attacks — rushing to the emergency room of the hospital to get the kid's head stitched up.

Then comes the payoff — when the child grows from a little acorn into a real nut. What can equal the warm smile of a small lad with the sun glittering on $1,500 worth of braces — ruined by peanut brittle — or the frolicking, carefree voices of 20 hysterical savages running amok at a birthday party.

How sad not to have children to brighten your cocktail parties — massaging potato chips into the rug, wrestling the guests for the olives in their martinis. How empty is the home without challenging problems that make for a well-rounded life — and an early breakdown. The end-of-day report from mother, related like strategically placed blows to the temple. The tender, thoughtful discussions when the report card reveals that your senior son is a moron.

Children are worth every moment of anxiety, every sacrifice. You know it the first time you take your son hunting. He didn't mean to shoot you in the leg. Remember how he cried? How sorry he was? So disappointed you weren't a deer. Those are the memories a man treasures.

Think back to that night of romantic adventure, when your budding, beautiful daughter eloped with the village idiot. What childless couple ever shares in such a wonderful growing experience? Could a woman without children equal the strength and heroism of your wife when she tried to fling herself out of the bedroom window? Only a father could have the courage to stand by — ready to jump after her.

The childless couple lives in a vacuum. They try to fill their lonely lives with dinner dates, the theater, golf, tennis, swimming, civic affairs, and vacation trips all over the world. They contribute nothing to humanity. The emptiness of life without children is indescribably. But the childless couple is too comfortable to know it. Just look at them and see what the years have done. He looks boyish, unlined and rested. She is slim, well-groomed and youthful. It isn't natural. If they had kids, they'd look like the rest of us — tired, gray, wrinkled and haggard. In other words, normal.

L.M. Boyd Hog drives once common

You've heard all about the cattle drives of the Old West, but what do you know about the hog drives? During the first half of the 19th Century, hog farmers west of the Appalachians wanted to get their pork to the big eastern towns. So they organized drives over the National Trail which is now U.S. 40. Toll gate records indicate millions of hogs were so driven.

Theatrical performances on Thanksgiving Day almost invariably have failed, primarily because most people have preferred to stay home to dinner rather than go to a show. Our Language man has been informed by Chet Switell that the entire of the dinner, therefore, came to be used as the descriptive term for such a performance. Namely, a turkey.

STONED
Q "Where'd we get the slang term "stoned" to mean 'drunk'?"
A. From a mixture of rum and hard cider which the colonial folk called "Stonewall."

Item 1406B in our Love and War man's file labeled "Flirtation" is a short note from a young lady who claims to be an expert on the subject. Her key sentence reads: "Before going to parties, I always take the flint out of my cigarette lighter, then flick it like mad."

Men used to be taught that a cold shower would suppress their romantic urges. Theories change, what? More and more medical specialists now claim the cold shower more often than not stimulates amorous arousal.

A first-class postage stamp in Sweden costs 23 cents, please note.

ATHLETES
You have to overlook the extraordinary trophy winners when you consider this: The average college athlete two years after graduation earns an annual salary of $7,600. The average nonathlete two years after graduation earns $11,000. Or so indicate the most recent statistics at hand. If true, the figures suggest there's a hole in that widely held belief that collegiate sport makes a dandy ladder to success.

A salesman who deals in new typewriters says he has kept track during the last several years of what his prospective customers write first when testing the machines. In descending order, they type out: 1. Their own names. 2. Now is the time for all good men . . . 3. The quick brown fox . . . Clearly, he says, his findings prove beyond doubt that people are more interested in themselves than in all good men or quick brown foxes.

Next time you eat a lamb chop or wear a woolen sweater, try to figure out which sort of domesticated animal was the first to be mentioned in the Bible.

The Japanese mostly are tea drinkers, right? So how do you account for the 21,000 coffee shops in Tokyo?

Dr. Miller Puppy's pointed head normal

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have a new puppy. He's nice, but he has a pointed head. Does that mean he's going to be dumb, or anything like that? — H.A.

DEAR H.A.: Whether your puppy's pointed head produces problems depends partially on just where and how much it's pointed. Many normal puppies (and adult dogs, too) have a very prominent bony ridge on the tops of their skulls which has no bearing on brain capacity or capability.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Why is two tomcats fighting such a big deal? What's all that terrible about a cat getting a simple little abscess from a fight? Our cat's had three abscesses on his back in three months. It's no big deal. I treat 'em myself. — B.T.

DEAR B.T.: Cat bite abscesses are a "big deal" because even though the can may overcome the infection (instead of the infection overcoming the cat), when improperly cleaned out and treated initially, this type of abscess tends to recur within weeks or even a few months. It is more extensive and harder to treat, usually, on recurrence, than it was the first time. Owners frequently consider the condition "cured" because the abscess breaks or is drained and seems to heal, when in reality infection continues in the deeper tissue and flares back again.

Also, the active infection related to the abscess and the toxic material within it can prove fatal to the feline by either developing into an overwhelming infection in the first place or by causing serious but non-fatal damage to vital organs, particularly the kidneys. Each time an abscess occurs, these organs become weaker as the damage increases until eventually there is fatal (abscess-induced) kidney damage. The owner may be completely unaware that those long-forgotten abscesses had anything to do with it. Finally, each bout with a bite-wound infection lowers the cat's resistance to other infections, particularly latent viral types including feline leukemia. For example, a leukemia virus may be carried in the body for a long period of time under control, but break loose and overcome the cat's resistance while the feline fighter is attempting to recover from a bite wound. Bite wounds are a "big deal," and anyone who treats them lightly is flirting with disaster.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Tuesday, Jan. 4, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very careful today not to alienate indispensable allies. You're on very thin ice and could easily fall through.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There's a possibility today you could say the wrong thing to your boss. If you have a criticism, be careful how you voice it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't participate today in anything that smacks of financial risk. The odds are definitely not in your favor through tomorrow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't get away with anything today if you're looking out for No. 1 only. If your approach is selfish, be prepared to be jumped on.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Guard against magnifying problems today and making them more frustrating than they really are. Don't sweat little things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid any type of entanglement today where money is an issue. Don't borrow, lend or invest anything, even with close friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Using hard and complicated procedures doesn't assure success for you today. It's better to operate with simple, proven methods.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take that chip off your shoulder today. Don't let minor impositions of others get you uptight and surly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Above all don't poke your nose into situations where it doesn't belong today. Know the boundaries and stay within them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) One-to-one relationships may prove particularly testy for you through tomorrow. Be extremely tactful when negotiating in close quarters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You might have some difficulties today involving people you're working with. Have the courage to stand up to them. They don't realize they might be wrong.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Betting in the blind today can prove to be a costly experience. Don't get mixed up with anything less solid than a blue-chip stock.

Your Birthday, Jan. 4, 1977

You're going to meet many new people this coming year and form some interesting alliances. Don't give up something untried for the proven and reliable.

Dr. Lamb Weight loss lowers pressure

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 59, female, married and have high blood pressure around 175. I am worried about strokes or a heart attack, but my faith believes only "God" is the greatest of all physicians. I wonder if you can buy something over the counter at a drug store?

DEAR READER — If you belong to the faith I think you might, you may be interested to know the lady who founded the faith wore glasses — but I don't know where she bought them.

You should be concerned about your blood pressure as it does increase the chances that you could have either a stroke or heart attack or other disorders associated with diseased arteries.

I usually prefer to see a person with high blood pressure improve his or her living patterns first if that can be done. If you have any amount of fat at all under your skin, go on a sensible diet and exercise daily. At least try to walk 30 minutes to an hour a day. Walk in two sessions if you need to, in order to not be uncomfortable. The weight loss often lowers a person's blood pressure, and when it is successful it is far better for you than any medicines available for moderate elevations of blood pressure.

Also you should avoid coffee, tea and colas, as well as cigarettes.

None of these measures should conflict with your faith. I know of no Christian religion that is against a good healthy diet program, exercise and avoiding cigarettes, coffee and tea.

To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

About this, that

To maintain what the government calls a "high" standard of living, an urban family of four requires an income of $22,300 a year. Families in New York and Boston need some $4,500 more to maintain this standard of living, The Conference Board observes.

Giant clams in the Pacific Ocean can measure more than three feet long and weigh up to 600 pounds.

Measurements of the moon's atmosphere indicate that air pressure there is less than one one-hundred-billionth of that on earth.

With cold ranging even more than on Antarctica, temperatures on the planet Mars fluctuate between 65 degrees F., down to minus 100 degrees.

Ditches instead of insecticides are used to fight mosquitoes in some salt marshes. Canals link mosquito-breeding places with tidal creeks so that fish can swim in and eat the larvae.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Jim: "How about starting out the year with some hands showing how a rubber bridge player makes sure of his contract, while a match-point player thinks about over-tricks."

Oswald: "Here is a hand that illustrates this point quite well. Playing at four spades, a duplicate player will win the club lead in dummy and lead a trump. East will show out. West will cash three trumps and lead another club or anything else for that matter. When South goes after hearts he will have to lose a trick in that suit on account of the 5-1 break. It won't give him a bottom score. Every other man in four spades will have taken the same line of play. Four spades down one will be about average."

Jim: "Lots of rubber bridge players will take this same line of play. It can only be costly if West holds all three trumps and the hearts break badly. However a really careful rubber bridge player will leave trumps entirely alone and go after hearts. This way the bad break will only hold him to four. It won't be able to cost him his contract."

Ask the Jacobys

A florida reader wants to know if declarer can play from his hand and then play from dummy before his left hand opponent has played.

The answer is that he can do this if he wants to, but he can't change the card that he has played prematurely.
